Affidavits Charging Threat On President's Life To Be Produced

WASHINGTON, May 27—(UP)—Representatives who will conduct a house investigation of "un-American" organizations and foreign propaganda said today that they would produce affidavits to prove that threats had been made to assassinate President Roosevelt.

Overwhelmingly and without a record vote, the house created a seven-member special investigating committee yesterday to investigate the activities of the German-American bund, communists and any groups suspected of opposing the American form of government.

Speaker William B. Bankhead shortly will appoint the members who will be empowered to sit anywhere in the United States during the congressional recess and to subpoena the leaders of allegedly "subversive" groups.

Rep. Martin Dies, D., Tex., as author of the investigation resolution, will serve as chairman. Chairman Samuel Dickstein, D., N. Y., of the house immigration committee, a foe of alien governmental (Continued on Page Six)

FUNERAL TO BE SATURDAY AT 2 FOR CAR VICTIM

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Saturday in the Era, Darby township, church for Grover McKinney, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. David McKinney, who died in University hospital, Columbus, early Thursday after being struck by an automobile. Burial will be in Pleasant cemetery, Mt. Sterling.

The child was struck by the car of Charles Rhinehardt, Cincinnati, while he was watching a train pass under the highway crossing at Era. The boy watched the train enter one side of the bridge and started to run across the road to see it leave the other when he was hit. Mr. Rhinehardt reported the accident to Mt. Sterling officials and was exonerated of blame.

The youth is survived by his parents; a sister, Minnie, and four brothers, Alfred, Gene, David and Richard.

No Hint Voiced of Plan for Court Contest

WASHINGTON, May 27—(UP)—Dr. Arthur E. Morgan today officially claimed that he still is chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

He made the claim in an open letter to Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan, whom President Roosevelt appointed chairman after deposing Arthur Morgan as head of the New Deal project.

Morgan made his claim after testimony before a joint congressional committee in which he charged Directors H. A. Morgan and David Lilienthal with "mismanagement, deception of the public, the President and Congress, and hypocrisy."

H. A. Morgan and Lilienthal countered with charges accusing Morgan of wildly "visionary" schemes, of seeking dictatorial powers over the board, and convincing to prevent Lilienthal's re-appointment.

Addressing his letter to H. A. Morgan, he signed himself as "chairman" of the T. V. A. In the text letter, he referred to H. A. Morgan as "vice-chairman." He gave no explanation of this apparent challenge of the President's power to remove him.

Court Action Hinted
During the controversy, it had been reported that Morgan might resort to court action in an attempt to controvert President Roosevelt's order, based on charges of "contumacy."

Morgan, however, gave no hint of his plans other than to make it plain he still considers himself chairman.

He defended his proposal to study the ethics of real estate men and their place in modern society, a proposal attacked yesterday by H. A. Morgan. He said that schemes were under way to sell Muscle Shoals lots, and "the imminent activities of the T. V. A. were being used as a selling argument."

"It was a reprehensible scheme and the necessity of immediate action to save small investors from exploitation by high-pressure salesmen was imperative," Morgan said, recalling that he had warned people against the plan in a radio broadcast.

WAYNE SCHOOL BOARD STUDIES ADDITION BIDS

Special meeting of the Wayne township board of education was held Friday afternoon for consideration of bids to provide additional classroom space at the Westfall building.

Bids were received up to noon Friday for construction of a one-room addition. The bids were to be opened and tabulated during the afternoon meeting.

Wayne township voted a $3,000 bond issue at the last election after refusing a similar request in 1936. Seventh and eighth grades have been taught in the auditorium. These classes would be removed to the new addition under present plans.

Enrollment of the Wayne school has been increased by the resettlement program.

FIREMAN'S WIFE MURDERED WITH BRICK; TWO HELD

CHICAGO, May 27—(UP)—While her two children and her sister slept in nearby rooms, Mrs. Florence Johnson, 34-year-old registered nurse and wife of a city fireman, was attacked and beaten to death with a brick early today by a man who fled through a broken window.

It was Chicago's fifth such crime since May 29, 1936. In only two of these have convictions been returned. Bricks were the murder weapon in all cases.

Capt. John Pendergast, chief of Chicago's uniformed police force, took charge of the case and said: "This is one case we're going to crack."

BURNS FATAL TO TRAIN ENGINEER IN GRADE CRASH

VAN WERT, May 27—(UP)—Bert Young of Fort Wayne, Ind., engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad's Liberty limited, died in the hospital here early today of burns received when the locomotive struck a large semi-trailer truck at a Lincoln highway detour crossing three and a half miles east of here.

M. E. Ferguson of Fort Wayne, fireman on the locomotive, was burned seriously but was expected by hospital attaches to recover.

The truck's cargo of starch exploded when the train struck, enveloping the locomotive cab in flames.

George Alt, the truck driver, and Lloyd Berkey, his helper, both of Elkhardt, Ind., escaped injury. The truck was enroute to Baltimore, Md., and the train was east-bound. The locomotive was disabled and train service on the route was delayed for two hours.

Young died at 1:15 a. m. today.

ANOTHER CZECH INCIDENT CITED BY NEWSPAPER

Germany Agency Declares Sudeten Farmer Beaten By Soldiers

BERLIN, May 27—(UP)—A new incident in which a Sudeten German farmer in Czechoslovakia was beaten by Czech soldiers was reported today by the semi-official D N B news agency, quoting the Linz newspaper Arbeiter Sturm.

The Czech soldiers asked a German farmer working his land near Kaplitz to show his identification papers, the dispatch said. The farmer said he never carried them while working and was knocked down by the soldiers with spades and gun butts, it was alleged, and was taken to a hospital in serious condition.

The agency questioned the accuracy of a Czech statement charging that 34 German airplanes had flown over Czech soil.

20 HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS BARRED FROM BANQUET

More than 20 juniors and seniors of Circleville high school were informed by school officials Friday they would not be permitted to attend the Junior-Senior banquet Friday evening as the result of disobedience to regulations concerning major school social events.

The pupils, school officials said, left Circleville for other points of entertainment following the Hi-Y Sweetheart dance.

Under regulations established by the board of education, pupils who leave the city to go to other places of entertainment after a major school function are not to be permitted to attend the next school function and are subjected to other penalties that might be inflicted by the board.

Special meeting of the board of education was held in the office of Charles H. May, president of the board, Friday, to consider the issue. The board instructed school officials to enforce the regulation.

MRS. LUCY STOUT IS DEAD AT 66; FUNERAL SUNDAY

Mrs. Lucy Stout, 66, wife of William H. Stout, died in Berger hospital at 2:20 a. m. Friday. Mrs. Stout, who had been ill for a week, entered the hospital Wednesday.

The funeral will be Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at the St. Paul Evangelical church, of which she was a member, with the Revs. Clyde R. Wendell and O. R. Swisher officiating. Burial will be in Hiller-Ludwig cemetery by M. S. Rinehart. Pallbearers will be Byron and Vernon Bolender, Charles Mowery, Frank Wharton, Lyman Riffle and Arthur Barthelmas.

Mrs. Stout was a lifelong resident of Washington township, born March 27, 1871, a daughter of John and Susan Leist Bolender. She married William H. Stout on Dec. 2, 1905.

Surviving besides the husband are a son, Boyd; two grandchildren; four brothers, Charles, Circleville; George, Wayne township; Nelson, Columbus, and Henry Bolender, Washington township, and a sister, Mrs. Lydia Riffle, Circleville.

BAR INQUIRY GIVES CLEAN SLATE TO THOMAS DUFFY

COLUMBUS, May 27—(UP)—Thomas J. Duffy, Columbus attorney and brother of Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, was exonerated today of charges that he collected fees illegally, contained in a recent newspaper article.

The grievance committee of the Columbus Bar Association reported that "Duffy has not been and is not guilty of misconduct or unprofessional conduct in office."

Circleville's Only Civil War Veteran Is Ill, But He Hopes to be in Parade

William Parks, Circleville's only Civil War veteran, hopes to participate in the Memorial Day service next Monday.

If Mr. Parks' condition permits, his grandson, Boyce Parks, will take the veteran in the parade and to the service in Forest cemetery in an auto.

Mr. Parks has been in ill health for the last three months. Several times during the illness his condition has been serious. At present he is able to spend a part of each day in his chair.

The veteran was 89 last Feb. 2. He came to Circleville in 1923 from Hocking county. He served in Co. G., 23rd regiment of the O. V. F. I. Mr. Parks was in five major battles and was wounded in the hip.

There are no surviving members of Groce Post, G. A. R., of Circleville.

13 SENIORS TO HEAR PRESIDENT

Roosevelt in West Virginia Hamlet For Important Address

ARTHURDALE, W. Va., May 27—(UP)—President Roosevelt came to this tiny mountain hamlet—product of his own New Deal—to tell 13 graduating high school seniors and a national radio audience today of his problems as President.

Specifically those concerns with the new tax bill.

The occasion was unprecedented. With business and industry awaiting in anxious interest for the chief executive's action on a $5,330,000,000 revenue bill expected to aid economic recovery, Mr. Roosevelt journeyed to one of the smallest communities in which he has ever appeared to make his announcement. ## COLLEGIANS AND FIREMEN FIGHT COLLEGE BLAZE

FINDLAY, May 27—(UP)—Student volunteers and all available firemen battled fire and smoke for an hour and a half to bring under control a blaze that caused $20,000 damage to the 52-year-old main building of Findlay college early today.

The fire, believed to have started in baled paper in the basement near the physics laboratory, ate through the first floor to the main lobby. Most of the damage was to the south wing.

Firemen turned two streams of water into the main entrance for hour. The fire broke out a second time two hours later in the physics laboratory, which was wrecked.

Fire Chief Ray E. Long said firemen would remain on duty in the building all day to guard against new outbreaks. The building is of brick but the interior is mostly of wooden construction.

Myrl Musgrave, 22, of North Canton, O., a senior, was injured while helping firemen. He fell 15 feet through a hole in the lobby floor and was taken to the hospital suffering from shock and smoke.

Valuable books and historical references in the college library were saved.

SEARCHERS UNABLE TO FIND BODY OF YOUTH

The sheriff's department and civilians continued their search Friday for the body of Clarence Fowler 16, Maplewood avenue and Huston street.

The Scioto river is still swollen. Authorities believed it was useless to resume dragging the stream until it returns to normal. They searched along the banks believing the body may have been carried to shore by the flood waters. Fowler drowned last Saturday while swimming north of the W. Main street bridge.

CHICAGO CHILD, STRICKEN WITH GLIOMA, BETTER

CHICAGO, May 27—(UP)—Two-months-old Elaine Judith Colan, victim of retinal glioma, a dread cancerous malady, was reported improved slightly today by Dr. Herbert Schmitz, radiologist, who has been treating her with super-voltage x-ray.

The baby was born with glioma. Her left eye was removed May 9 in an effort to prevent spread of the disease to her brain. The operation was performed after a council of medical specialists had decided that it was the only chance to save her life.

Samuel Hoffman, attorney for the child's parents, said Dr. Schmitz had told him that the optic nerve of the right eye does not seem to be involved and that the cancerous condition has been confined to about half of the nerve tissues of the eye.

Because of that, Hoffman said, Schmitz has decided it will be necessary to give the child only ten x-ray treatments, instead of 21 he originally had ordered.

POLICE AND UNION PICKETS IN CLASH AT RUBBER PLANT

Mayor Ready to Call on Governor for Ohio Guardsmen if Labor Trouble Breaks Out Again; Goodyear Factory Strife Scene

NUMBER OF INJURED UNCERTAIN

Many Go to Hospitals, Others Treated for Wounds in Rubber Workers' Headquarters

AKRON, May 27—(UP)—Mayor Lee D. Schroy today asked Gov. Martin L. Davey "to stand ready to send national guard troops into Akron," as 200 police kept an armed peace at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company after a strike riot in which at least 100 persons were injured.

Union workers threatened a general strike in this world famous rubber capital as police forced angry pickets to move back several blocks for entry of a shift of workers at 6 a. m. when possible new violence had been expected.

Hundreds of persons were gassed in a three-hour battle before the Goodyear gates. Estimates of those injured by night-sticks or stones ran as high as 200. Police said that many who were beaten or gassed during the siege probably feared police detention if they reported their injuries.

City and county police stood by today with sub-machine guns and riot guns, capable of inflicting death or serious injury.

Walk-Out Threatened
The general strike threat came from a "strike strategy committee" of the United Rubber Workers. The group said that it might attempt to call a general walk-out in this city of 255,000 "if the situation is not eased by Goodyear."

Company officials said that plant No. 1 was operating normally after entry of the morning shift, with 1,500 workers in their places. The company checked and counted each worker as he entered.

Some of the number had remained in the plant during the night. Plants 2 and 3 also were kept open, but it was understood that the company expected to concentrate in operating plant No. 1 with a normal force.

Thomas F. Burns, international vice-president of the U. R. W., sent telegrams today to President Roosevelt, John L. Lewis and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins protesting "last night's violence." He sent one also to Yale Oliver, executive vice-president of labor's non-partisan league.

The strike strategy committee ordered all members not working to reinforce picket lines along the (Continued on Page Six)

School Men Pay Tribute To Attendance Officer

Ferd Dumm of Leisville, who has completed eight years' service with the county school system as attendance officer, was honored at a banquet in Hanley's tea room Thursday evening.

The banquet was given by county school superintendents and male principals of elementary schools. Fourteen were present.

Mr. Dumm's retirement this year as attendance officer is mandatory under regulations of the state public school retirement system. The age limit is 70 years for an employee. Mr. Dumm is 72.

The honored guest was highly praised by the school officials for his efficient work. He was presented a box of cigars and a tie.

A committee consisting of Myron T. Johnson, superintendent of Pickaway township school; A. Wendell Boyer, superintendent of Washington township school, and Ray Sponsler, superintendent of Perry township school, arranged the affair.

To date the county board of education has named no successor to Mr. Dumm.

Those at the dinner in addition to Messrs. Dumm, Sponsler, Boyer and Bennett were George McDowell, superintendent of county schools; Brice Connell, Darby; Pleigord Hansen, Jackson; George Broyles, Monroe; Harold Strous, Saltcreek; Ralph Francis, Scioto; C. A. Higley, Ashville; Harold Costlow, New Holland; Wilbur Kuhn, principal at Tarlton, and Karl Drum, principal at South Bloomfield.

Marx Tells Guardsmen To Stand By

COLUMBUS, May 27—(UP)—Orders to "stand by" for a possible mobilization call for strike duty at the Goodyear plant in Akron were issued today to 3,000 national guardsmen in central and northwestern Ohio by Adjutant General Emil F. Marx.

Troops could be moved into Akron within eight hours, Gen. Marx said. Whether the mobilization call will be given depends upon strike developments, he added.

The latest word from Brig. Gen. William Marlin, national guard observer at Akron, was that local officials had the situation under control and that no troops would be necessary.

Other observers assigned to the strike area today by Gen. Marx are Gen. Gilson D. Light, Toledo, Gen. Frank D. Henderson, Columbus; Maj. Dale Thibaud, Columbus, and Capt. Fred Ruffner, Akron.

MEXICANS CLAIM CEDILLO LOSES 1,200 SOLDIERS

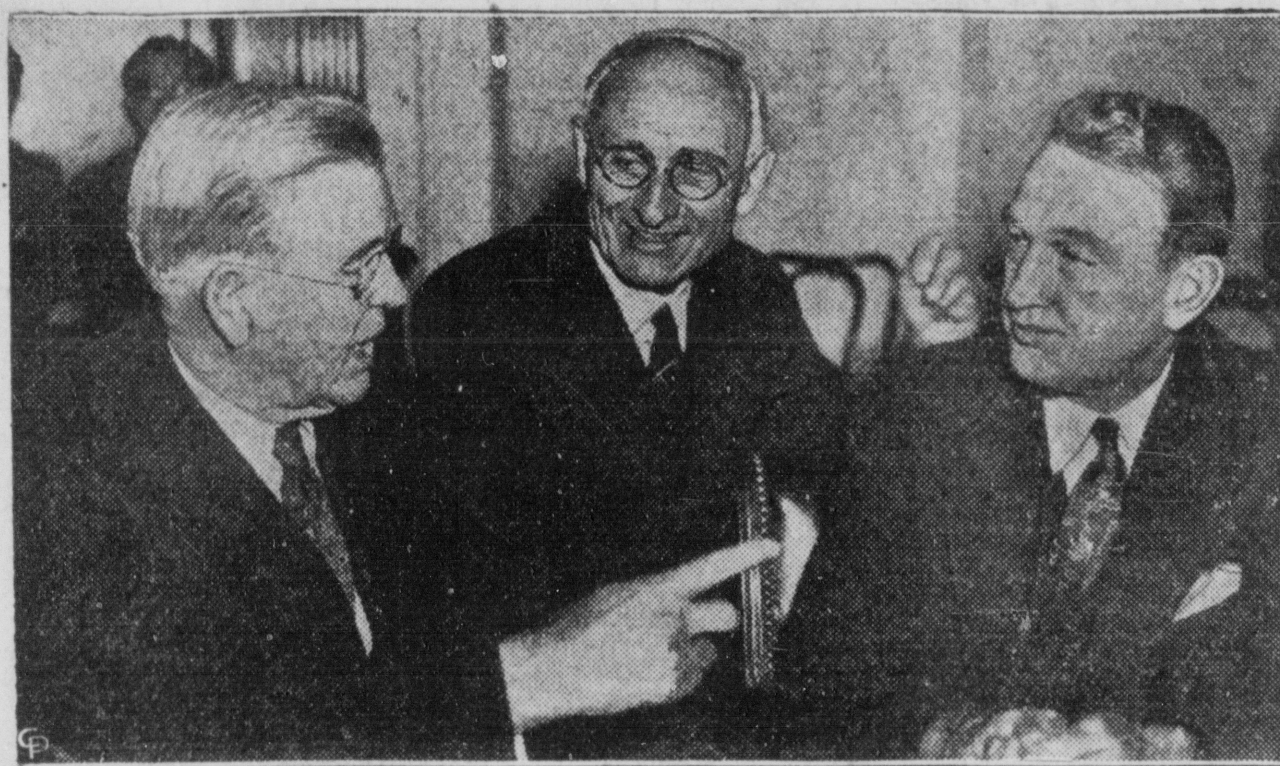

SAN LUIS, POTOSI, MEXICO, May 27—(UP)—At least 1,200 of Gen. Saturnino Cedillo's rebels have surrendered, the government asserted today while federal troops pursued the remnants of a guerrilla band that attempted to wreck the "sunshine special" on the Mexico City-Laredo, Tex., railroad.

Most of the prisoners were held between Rio Verde and Cardenas, in the southeastern part of the state. The attempted train wrecking took place 26½ miles south of here. The engine, two express cars and a second-class coach were overturned. No one was hurt.

NUMBER OF INJURED UNCERTAIN

Many Go to Hospitals, Others Treated for Wounds in Rubber Workers' Headquarters

AKRON, May 27—(UP)—Mayor Lee D. Schroy today asked Gov. Martin L. Davey "to stand ready to send national guard troops into Akron," as 200 police kept an armed peace at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company after a strike riot in which at least 100 persons were injured.

Union workers threatened a general strike in this world famous rubber capital as police forced angry pickets to move back several blocks for entry of a shift of workers at 6 a. m. when possible new violence had been expected.

Hundreds of persons were gassed in a three-hour battle before the Goodyear gates. Estimates of those injured by night-sticks or stones ran as high as 200. Police said that many who were beaten or gassed during the siege probably feared police detention if they reported their injuries.

City and county police stood by today with sub-machine guns and riot guns, capable of inflicting death or serious injury.

The general strike threat came from a "strike strategy committee" of the United Rubber Workers. The group said that it might attempt to call a general walk-out in this city of 255,000 "if the situation is not eased by Goodyear."

Company officials said that plant No. 1 was operating normally after entry of the morning shift, with 1,500 workers in their places. The company checked and counted each worker as he entered.

Some of the number had remained in the plant during the night. Plants 2 and 3 also were kept open, but it was understood that the company expected to concentrate in operating plant No. 1 with a normal force.

Thomas F. Burns, international vice-president of the U. R. W., sent telegrams today to President Roosevelt, John L. Lewis and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins protesting "last night's violence."

He sent one also to Yale Oliver, executive vice-president of labor's non-partisan league.

The strike strategy committee ordered all members not working to reinforce picket lines along the (Continued on Page Six) strike in the Youngstown area last Summer, decided to await developments after receiving a request for troops from Akron officials at 4:30 a. m.

The latest word from Brig. Gen. William Marlin, national guard observer at Akron, was that local officials had the situation under control and that no troops would be necessary.

Other observers assigned to the strike area today by Gen. Marx are Gen. Gilson D. Light, Toledo, Gen. Frank D. Henderson, Columbus; Maj. Dale Thibault, Columbus, and Capt. Fred Ruffner, Akron.

MEXICANS CLAIM CEDILLO LOSES 1,200 SOLDIERS

SAN LUIS, POTOSI, MEXICO, May 27—(UP)—At least 1,200 of Gen. Saturnino Cedillo's rebels have surrendered, the government asserted today while federal troops pursued the remnants of a guerrilla band that attempted to wreck the "sunshine special" on the Mexico City-Laredo, Tex., railroad.

Most of the prisoners were held between Rio Verde and Cardenas, in the southeastern part of the state. The attempted train wrecking took place 26½ miles south of here. The engine, two express cars and a second-class coach were overturned. No one was hurt.

Bombs Dropped On Cerbere During Night; Daladier Asked For Aid

RAIL STATION OBJECT

Two Persons Reported Hurt During Assault

PERPIGNAN, French-Spanish frontier, May 27—(UP)—Mayor Julien Cruzel of Cerbere telegraphed Premier Edouard Daladier today demanding increased protection against raids by "Italo-German" airplanes as the result of a severe bombing attack on the French border town.

Townpeople seem to have no doubt that two seaplanes which raided Cerbere last night belonged to the Spanish Nationalists.

Fifteen bombs were dropped near the railroad station. Two persons, one a Frenchman, were reported wounded and three houses were damaged. Several railroad coaches were smashed.

It was asserted that there was reason to believe that the bombs might have been of Italian manufacture, but this was not confirmed.

Panic spread through Cerbere as the bombs dropped into the town during a fiesta in which 400 dancers were celebrating in the market square. The dancers and others fled in terror to the railroad tunnel and most of the people spent the night there.

Cerbere Always Lighted
The bombing took place at 9:30 last night. The Spanish town of Portbou, across the frontier, is always "blackened out" at night in fear of bombardment of the important France-Spain railroad, a life line for supplies. Cerbere, however, is brightly lighted.

The drone of airplane motors was heard over Cerbere and the searchlights of the strong anti-aircraft defense force were turned into the night sky. One of the raiding planes was caught fairly in the searchlight beams.

There was some belief that the pilot of this plane became frightened and dropped his bombs. Also, witnesses reported that they saw a plane flying slowly near the mountain behind Cerbere railroad station, and that it might have dropped its bombs in fear of a crash. However, the planes remained in the vicinity of the town for 15 minutes, and continued cruising along the coast until 11 o'clock.

Terror of the people was increased because one plane dropped magnesium flares, which burned for an hour near the suburban vineyards.

It was asserted with apparent conviction that the planes were Spanish Nationalist ones. They were seaplanes, and it was alleged they came from the Nationalist base at Palma, in the Balearic islands.

In addition to writing the Declaration of Independence and serving as President of the United States, Thomas Jefferson made several inventions, including the swivel chair.

As Cardenas Battled Revolt

PRESIDENT LAZARO CARDENAS, left, receives reports from an army officer in Mexico City as Mexican government troops head for San Luis Potosi to suppress agrarian revolt of Gen. Saturnino Cedillo. Following several encounters with Cedillo's private "army," government officials reported that the revolt had been reduced to scattered guerilla fighting.

T. V. A. Probers to Name Lawyer Next Wednesday

WASHINGTON, May 27—(UP)—The joint congressional committee investigating the Tennessee Valley Authority planned today to select an attorney next Wednesday to cross-examine the directors of the power and planning agency.

The committee recessed until next week hearing Directors David E. Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan, and former T.V.A. Chairman Dr. Arthur E. Morgan accuse each other of mismanagement and sabotage.

Several committee members after listening to their accusations and denials for two days said that there was "need for an exhaustive investigation of this mess." One member predicted privately that President Roosevelt and his whole power program would be "dragged directly" into the controversy.

Lilienthal concluded the preliminary part of the investigation late yesterday with the charge that Dr. Morgan, before he was ousted by the President for contempt in March, had sought to sabotage the New Deal rate program when it was under court attack by 18 private utilities.

Earlier H. A. Morgan who succeeded Dr. Morgan as chairman, vigorously denied the former chairman's charges of mismanagement, conspiracy and collusions.

The next phase of the investigation will begin as soon as an attorney is selected.

Meanwhile, Sen. James P. Pope, D., Ida., disclosed that the President had asked H. A. Morgan to have the T. V. A. start "at the earliest possible moment," in conjunction with the departments of agriculture and interior, a technical investigation of the phosphate problem.

Development of phosphate resources for fertilizer is an integral part of the T. V. A. program. Dr. Morgan has questioned H. A. Morgan's practices in developing the fertilizer program, but the latter replied that Dr. Morgan, while chairman, had signed every contract which he now questions. Mr. Roosevelt sent a special message to congress last week urging a study of phosphate resources.

Dr. Morgan's testimony Wednesday placed the major blame for "mismanagement, deception, confounding the public mind and hypo-

TEXAS OFFICERS
SPREAD ALARM
FOR HAMILTON

Brother Of Dead Desperado
Escapes Kilgore Police

BALL PARK CASH TAKEN

Outlaw And Partner Armed,
Patrol Warns

TYLER, TEX., May 27—(UP)—The state highway patrol today broadcast an alarm to all Texas officers advising them to take no chances with Floyd Hamilton, who escaped from Tyler officers last night after a running gun battle. Hamilton, described as the most cunning desperado in Texas, and his companion, Ted Walters, were identified tentatively as the two men who robbed the ticket salesman at the Kilgore baseball park a short time after the gun fight. Officers were warned that the men were armed, that they apparently were well supplied with ammunition, and that they probably would not surrender without a fight.

Hamilton and Walters rode and walked around in Tyler unrecognized most of yesterday afternoon. They picked up two girls, told them that they were oil men taking the afternoon off.

W. D. Blackburn and F. O. Goen, agents of the state liquor control board, saw Hamilton and Walters walking along the street last night.

Wanted as Fugitives
The agents asked Patrolman K. H. Hamilton to arrest the pair, who are wanted in Montague county for breaking jail.

The desperadoes saw the officers approaching. They jumped into their car and started out of town. The officers followed, firing at the bandit car as the machines sped through the outskirts of town. Hamilton and Walters returned the fire.

A few miles out of town the bandits turned off the Kilgore highway and the officers lost the trail. At Kilgore, 25 miles east of here, a man wearing a broad brimmed cowboy hat got out of a sedan, walked up to the ticket office at the baseball park, stuck a pistol in front of Clyde Lee, the ticket salesman, and ordered him to hand over the cash. Lee said the man got $111. Lee reported the theft to Police Chief Jack Freeman, who was in the stands watching the baseball game.

An hour later at Gladewater, 14 miles north of Kilgore, two men drove alongside an unoccupied car. They were attempting to get the car started when the owner, Mrs. J. C. McDowell, appeared. The men, who officers believed might have been Hamilton and Walters, fled.

Hamilton was a brother of Raymond Hamilton, who was executed at Texas state penitentiary. Raymond Hamilton was a member of the Clyde Barrow gang.

Floyd Hamilton was charged with car theft in Montague county and was being held for trial when he escaped.

I never could see much use for high livin'. It costs just so much to buy the necessities of life and when you go beyond that, you're jest buyin' a lot of stuff that you have no real use for.

My Uncle Slug's wife went into a store one day to buy a drinkin' trough for her dogs. The man says "Well, we have some plain ones for twenty-nine cents but I can give you one with 'dogs' written on it for seventy-five cents."

My aunt said "Well, I'll just take the plain one—my dogs can't read and my husband don't drink water."

Favorable Progress Heard
From Volunteers

Encouraged by favorable progress made in the current campaign to raise funds which will assure the maintenance of Boy Scout work in Circleville, workers were expected to complete their solicitations, Friday. William Radcliff, Williamsport, is campaign chairman.

The annual drive to secure $600 to finance this district's share of the operating expense of the local council was started in Pickaway county Tuesday.

"About half the amount sought has been subscribed," Radcliff said, "and a complete report from all the workers should bring us success." Circleville funds will be supplemented by contributions from other Pickaway district communities which are promoting scouting. Friday was expected to see the campaign brought to a close so far as intensive solicitation is concerned, Radcliff said. A few clubs and lodges and out-of-town business concerns will contribute later, but local campaign managers are desirous of completing the drive as soon as possible.

The Bob and Ed store is headquarters for the drive. Funds may be left there.

Maintaining Personal Efficiency

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 29 is Daniel 1:8-16, 19, 20 and I Corinthians 9:24-27, the Golden Text being I Cor. 9:24, "Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things.")

"IF YOU DRIVE, don't drink; if you drink, don't drive," is a slogan to which no reasonable person can object. Driving an automobile in modern traffic is so hazardous to oneself and to those with him and about him that it requires the maintenance of the highest possible degree of efficiency.

Purpose of Heart

The young man Daniel points us to the surest way of maintaining such personal habits of life as will be conducive to temperance and its consequent personal efficiency: "Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the wine which he drank." It was an inner and voluntary restraint which Daniel put upon himself, a strong inner purpose of heart which made him master of, rather than slave to, his environment. Back of this purpose of heart was a deep religious desire to be all that his God would have Daniel be, and he was willing to suffer self-denial to live up to the best of which he was capable for the sake of the God whose name Daniel carried about as a part of his own name.

"As Do the Romans"
"When in Rome, do as do the Romans" was in no sense the policy of Daniel and his associates. They were away from home with no home restraints to respect. They were slaves with no reputation to let down in their manner of life. Their religion and morals were in no sense dictated by the changes of geography or social position. "Everybody is doing it" was no reason for Daniel to do it. He had the courage to be himself though he stood alone, a slave against the mighty. "Prove thy servants ten days" and at the end of the trial period of simple living "their countenances appeared fairer... than all the children which did eat the portion of the king's meat." The temperate, self-disciplined life is a life of no regrets.

"Temperate in All Things"

We take care of our automobiles because it costs money to replace them. We are willing to pay an extra price for gas and oil that will do them no injury. But how careless we are of the more delicate and valuable and irreplaceable machinery of our bodies. How reckless we are in punishing this human machine with our intemperance in eating and drinking, working and playing and countless other forms of self-abuse and disregard of our physical health and that of our children after us. Is discipline reasonable in training to be an athlete and unreasonable in training to be a good mechanic or practitioner or parent? Paul said, "I buffet my body and bring it into bondage." Who is boss in the house of our bodily life? Are you master of your body, or are you its slave?

Has No Trouble Working Now
Since Dizziness Passed Off

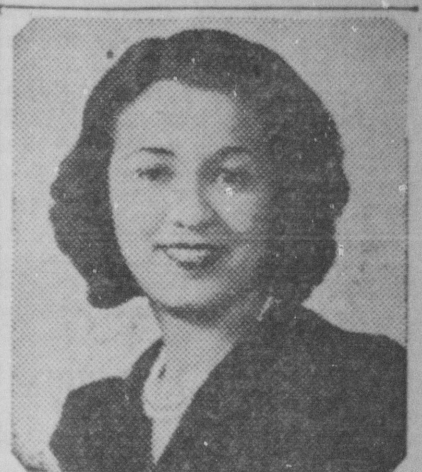

Attractive young woman feels like new since Vendol sharpened her appetite, brought thorough bowel movement and stimulated tired kidneys.

The following experience proves that young people in this city as well as older ones may take Vendol and get wonderful benefits. It is the case of Miss Mary Delgado, who says:

"At times I would get so dizzy while at work that I would have to stop and sit down and lost a lot of valuable time in this way. During these spells little black spots would float before my eyes. I was so sluggish and constipated I seemed to fill up with bile and began to lose all my energy and strength."

"My kidneys got out of order and I began to have mean, nagging backaches and my sleep was broken by aches and pains. My digestion wasn't so good either, and the gas forming after meals would make my heart flutter."

"I heard so much about Vendol and all the good it was doing that I decided to give it a trial, and it made me feel like a new person. It got my bowels moving nicely, acted as a mild diuretic to my kidneys, and soon the dizzy spells, gastritis, and backache left me. Now I eat better, sleep better, and my work seems like play. You may tell everyone that Vendol has my hearty endorsement." Lost time is lost money and to make the best use of your time you must be in tip-top condition. If you are feeling "out of sorts" try Vendol, and notice the cleansing and invigorating effect its good old Roots and Herbs with mild Alkalines, give you. It is safe, dependable, pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists.

TEXAS OFFICERS SPREAD ALARM FOR HAMILTON

Brother Of Dead Desperado
Escapes Kilgore Police
After Identification

BALL PARK CASH TAKEN

Outlaw And Partner Armed,
Patrol Warns

TYLER, TEX., May 27—(UP)—The state highway patrol today broadcast an alarm to all Texas officers advising them to take no chances with Floyd Hamilton, who escaped from Tyler officers last night after a running gun battle. Hamilton, described as the most cunning desperado in Texas, and his companion, Ted Walters, were identified tentatively as the two men who robbed the ticket salesman at the Kilgore baseball park a short time after the gun fight. Officers were warned that the men were armed, that they apparently were well supplied with ammunition, and that they probably would not surrender without a fight.

Hamilton and Walters rode and walked around in Tyler unrecognized most of yesterday afternoon. They picked up two girls, told them that they were oil men taking the afternoon off.

W. D. Blackburn and F. O. Goen, agents of the state liquor control board, saw Hamilton and Walters walking along the street last night.

Wanted as Fugitives
The agents asked Patrolman K. H. Hamilton to arrest the pair, who are wanted in Montague county for breaking jail.

The desperadoes saw the officers approaching. They jumped into their car and started out of town. The officers followed, firing at the bandit car as the machines sped through the outskirts of town. Hamilton and Walters returned the fire.

A few miles out of town the bandits turned off the Kilgore highway and the officers lost the trail.

At Kilgore, 25 miles east of here, a man wearing a broad brimmed cowboy hat got out of a sedan, walked up to the ticket office at the baseball park, stuck a pistol in front of Clyde Lee, the ticket salesman, and ordered him to hand over the cash. Lee said the man got $111. Lee reported the theft to Police Chief Jack Freeman, who was in the stands watching the baseball game.

An hour later at Gladewater, 14 miles north of Kilgore, two men drove alongside an unoccupied car. They were attempting to get the car started when the owner, Mrs. J. C. McDowell, appeared. The men, who officers believed might have been Hamilton and Walters, fled.

Hamilton was a brother of Raymond Hamilton, who was executed at Texas state penitentiary. Raymond Hamilton was a member of the Clyde Barrow gang.

Floyd Hamilton was charged with car theft in Montague county and was being held for trial when he escaped.

Attractive young woman feels like new since Vendol sharpened her appetite, brought thorough bowel movement and stimulated tired kidneys.

The following experience proves that young people in this city as well as older ones may take Vendol and get wonderful benefits. It is the case of Miss Mary Delgado, who says:

"At times I would get so dizzy while at work that I would have to stop and sit down and lost a lot of valuable time in this way. During these spells little black spots would float before my eyes. I was so sluggish and constipated I seemed to fill up with bile and began to lose all my energy and strength."

"My kidneys got out of order and I began to have mean, nagging backaches and my sleep was broken by aches and pains. My digestion wasn't so good either, and the gas forming after meals would make my heart flutter."

"I heard so much about Vendol and all the good it was doing that I decided to give it a trial, and it made me feel like a new person. It got my bowels moving nicely, acted as a mild diuretic to my kidneys and soon the dizzy spells, gastritis, and backache left me. Now I eat better, sleep better, and my work seems like play. You may tell everyone that Vendol has my hearty endorsement."

Lost time is lost money and to make the best use of your time you must be in tip-top condition. If you are feeling "out of sorts" try Vendol, and notice the cleansing and invigorating effect its good old Biotin and Herbs with mild Alkalines, give you. It is safe, dependable, pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists.

TO CITIZENS

FOLK: What would the soldiers whose graves we decorate on May 30 think about the present world situation? The war most of them fought was a much simpler affair than modern wars. Its battles were decisive. It was free from poison gas, bombs dropped from the air, monstrous tanks and machine guns. Yet it was war, truly terrible and horrible. It was a Civil War general who said, "War is hell." Wars used to settle some questions. The War between the States is said to have "freed the slaves" and "preserved the Union". Many thoughtful patriots today wonder whether both purposes could not have been better achieved by more intelligent, peaceful means. War has seldom settled basic, underlying problems. The economic and social effects of slavery were not ended by the Civil War. Rather they were deepened and intensified, so that in many respects they remain troublesome today. World problems were not settled by the World War. Perhaps the soldier dead would tell us, if they could, that there are important things still to be done in their honor after we have put fresh flowers and flags on their graves. There are living wounds of misunderstanding and injustice still to be soothed and healed. There are eager, earnest youths to be saved from the horrors and brutality of war. Americans feel pride and loving remembrance for the men in blue and gray and khaki. But we grow less inclined to glorify the wars they fought and more intent on finding better ways to solve future issues which might lead to conflict.

TO SCOUTS' DADS

FRIENDS: The Boy Scout financial campaign, now in progress, merits and needs your support. Volunteer workers are busy throughout the city and county; they are doing their best to obtain $600 with which to guarantee the county's participation for another year in the work of the Central Ohio Area council. You have boys in Scout work; you know the advantages of the movement, and so do your boys. The only way Scout work can continue is for Circleville and Pickaway county to pay their way. The financial campaign must be successful. It is up to you to try to make it so. County scouting has taken many forward steps in the last two years. From two troops, the district has now grown to nine, and more are expected to be organized in the next few months. Without the $600, set as the district's quota, Scout work cannot continue. Please make the drive a success.

TO CIRCLEVILLE CHILDREN

YOUNGSTERS: Last Saturday a 16-year-old Circleville youth was drowned while swimming in the Scioto river just north of the W. Main street bridge. From all indications the youth, an inexperienced swimmer, was caught in a current in the stream. Swimming is a healthful exercise, but dangerous. Take no chances either swimming or diving in streams or ponds. Ask some older persons to accompany you on your swimming expeditions and listen to their advice. The Scioto river near the W. Main street bridge is a dangerous place to swim at any time. The water is deep there and the banks are steep on the west side of the river. At that point the channel is filled with trash thrown from the bridge and there are numerous snags and tree roots. Parents should prohibit children from playing along the river unless they are accompanied by older persons.

TO CIRCLEVILLE RESIDENTS

FRIENDS: Next Monday Circleville will join with other communities throughout the nation in the observance of Memorial Day. Ed. Ebert, general chairman of the Circleville observance, has obtained an outstanding speaker, Prof. Eli Jensen, business manager of Wittenberg college, Springfield, widely known for his constructive program for the American Legion of Ohio. In recent years the large majority of Circleville residents have been content to watch the parade, then leave to turn their attention to other activities. Crowds attending the addresses in Forest cemetery have been far too small for a city the size of Circleville.

TO RURAL RESIDENTS

FARMERS: Hundreds of sportsmen from throughout Ohio and nearby states will come to Circleville on June 24 and 25 for the fourth annual convention of the Ohio Crow Hunters association and the second national crow shoot. The national crow shoot and the aims of the organization are not to slaughter great numbers of the birds with shotguns, dynamite or poison. The organization is interested in vermin control and the shoot is strictly a sporting event in which a contestant matches his wits against those of the wily bird. Those of you who have hunted crows know they are full of tricks to fool the hunter. Members of the Pickaway Farmer's and Sportsman's association are assisting officials of the organization in locating woods or stations for the contestants. They should be located along lanes used by the birds or near roosting places. Farmers can greatly assist the organization by notifying members where crows congregate, and by giving members permission to hunt on their lands. This information should be sent to Harry Bartholomew, secretary of the county organization. The Circleville sportsmen want the contest to be a success and they need the assistance of farmers.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

The tentative plan to establish a Yankee broadcasting station to propagandize Latin America in this country's behalf and in opposition to German and Italian publicity activities in the same field naturally interest me—because I handled Uncle Sam's unofficial news in that part of the world during the war and for a short time afterward.

The service was under the auspices of the Washington government's committee on public information (better known as the "Compub"), of which George Creel was the head.

Our South American commander-in-chief was Hal Sevier, later ambassador to Chile, but Sevier's sphere of influence was spread all over the continent (there were similar divisional bosses scattered over the whole face of the globe). But I particularly was in charge of the actual detailed work in the so-called River Plate republics (Argentina, Uruguay and Paraguay, and protruding over into Brazil and Bolivia), with headquarters in Buenos Aires.

A "CLASSY SERVICE"

At the risk of appearing conceited (which I don't intend to be; I simply am trying to qualify myself as something of an expert) I will remark that Sevier said he could not have had a better Buenos Aires manager if he had furnished advance specifications. I ought to have been all right at that. I had had a lot of world-wide newspaper experience and several years of it on one of Argentina's biggest dailies, La Nacion of Buenos Aires.

And, in all modesty, I must allege that we gave those River Plate journals a ding-busted classy service.

NOT EASY

It was not so easy, either. We got almost nothing by cable, and wireless in those days was of small value. We received plenty of wireless dispatches, to be sure, but they were so jumbled up as to be well-nigh unintelligible.

What we had to depend on mainly was stuff we "copped" out of North America papers and magazines, re-wrote to suit local requirements, had our staff of translators turn into snappy Spanish and then turned the "dope" over to River Plate editors.

They gobbled it up bodily. True, they got it for nothing, but press agent yarns are not supposed to be paid for anyway.

STORIES PRINTED

The point is that we got our stories printed—columns and columns of them daily.

While the war lasted we devoted ourselves principally to our own North American sort of news from the zone of hostilities. But the "Compub" survived for awhile on into the post-war period.

In the latter era we tried to build Yankee trade in the River Plate region.

Our North American branch houses there liked it. It was not so much a question of counteracting German and Italian business. English business more especially needed to be counteracted.

The English press (represented by several sizable organs in the River Plate territory) "hollered" loudly concerning the inefficiency of their home publicity, in comparison with ours. (Sir Ernest Shackleton, the English South Polar explorer, was trying to run it. Of course he did not know a thing about publicity, and the English papers said so.)

STOPPED

It wasn't that which "queered" us. Our big home news agencies put us out of business. We were getting all the space and headlines, and our clients were getting them gratis.

So the news agencies combined in Washington and extinguished the "Compub".

American businessmen in Buenos Aires had liked our service so well that they backed me for a weekly newspaper, which lasted for a couple of years, to continue the old "Compub's" system privately. But it could not survive independently indefinitely. Finally it "busted".

A STEWART POSTSCRIPT

Nevertheless—

I do not believe in a governmentally-supported news service.

FIESTA

BY OREN ARNOLD

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Bill Baron, a footloose Texan, has just been rescued from a band of Yaku Indians, holding him for ransom, through a bold move on the part of Ellen Dale, Hollywood screen star. Ellen and Bill had been staying at the wealthy Montoya ranch across the Mexican border where they found themselves after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm. Ellen, enchanted by the atmosphere of old Mexico, finds herself growing more interested in Bill. Also rescued with Bill was Pamela Montoya, the ranch owner's daughter whose invitation to ride with her led to their capture by the Yaku. As they return to the ranch, Bill and Ellen find Don Julio, their host, and his son, Felix, with a large following of Mexicans, in hot pursuit of the Yaku. Ellen begs Bill to take her to the States. Bill agrees after they say goodbye to the Montoyas, both promising to return later for a fiesta. Suddenly Ellen decides not to return to Hollywood and telephones Sid Bromberg, her producer who is in town with her, not to come to Nogales for her. She and Bill dine at a romantic spot and Ellen finds herself seriously in love.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 17

BILL BARON and Ellen came back across the international line soon after dinner.

"I think I'd better take you home, date," Bill declared, when they had cleared the customs inspection. "I lose all self-control at dinner. I am now in what is known as a gastronomic stupor."

"Bill, that's indelicate!" Ellen snapped, pretending to be offended. But she also relaxed audibly in the taxicab seat. Never, she declared, had she eaten so bountifully, so delightfully, or in such a strange place.

Their car rolled lazily up a street of low adobe houses, square box-like things in which Mexican families lived. A great green parrot squawked fussily in front of one door, hanging and twisting on a peg driven into the adobe wall. A naked and brown two-year-old baby ran out in the dimly lighted street, accompanied by a yapping dog, and threw gravel at the taxicab, but a bigger Mexican child came and slapped the babe back to its own stoop. It didn't seem to mind. Next door to this house, along a barren porchless mud wall, six Mexican men squatted on their heels enjoying the moonlight. One made rhythmic passes at a guitar—um-plang-plang, um-plang-plang—and as Bill and Ellen moved by, all six of the men suddenly voiced a soft melodic chorus:

"Ay, ay, ay—

Canta y no lloras;

Porque cantando se alegran

Cielito lindo los corazonces."

It is the most haunting chorus that has come out of Spain or Mexico, and as they rode on Bill Baron began humming it. Ellen liked it, liked to hear him. Somehow it was immensely comforting, even though she couldn't say why. In California she had constant access to the best orchestras and best singers in the world, the highest priced; and music had usually been just a business consideration, a part of the routine of making motion pictures. But a snatch of song beside an adobe wall, echoed by a big leisurely Texan, touched her with a magic she had not known.

"I have some business matters to report," Bill informed her, as they left the taxicab at the hotel. "Shall we sit in the lobby, or—?"

"Let's see if the patio has a private spot," Ellen countered.

It did have; under a stone archway with rustic chairs. Moonlight filtered through a vine which with the gentle breeze created an animated shadow pattern on Ellen's gown and on the stone column beside her.

"I was not loafing all afternoon," Bill began, after they were comfortable. "I have some contacts—here. Some business friends. I know several people in and about Nogales, in fact. I learned of a ranch for sale up in the Santa Catalinas. There's another pretty good acreage on the south slope of the Rincons."

"They are—mountains, Bill?"

"Yeah, sure. Up that way," He pointed northward.

"They have lovely names. Musical."

"Yep. Everything in Arizona does, Ellen. Well, these ranches might fit into your plans, if you still yearn for that home in the great open spaces. Do you?"

Ellen didn't answer at once. She looked out across the patio, at the pool where El Conquistador probably was sleeping and dreaming. Then she answered.

"When I was on that trail with the Yaku Indians, I thought Mexico and everything around it must be terrible. But since then I have again felt its charm. Yes, Bill, I want a ranch home; some of this. You know what I mean?"

He nodded. "I know."

"Can I go see these ranches? Tomorrow?"

"Yes. That's what I was going to suggest. One of them has an old rattle-trap house on it, the other has no house at all now. The price would be low, if you didn't let them know who you were. They might take advantage of a wealthy movie actress."

"Certainly, Bill. I understand that. I have faced it before. And now I must speak my piece, too. If I am going to live down here, and buy land and build a home, and have a ranch and—cows and whatever, I must have help. After all, I don't know anything about it. I'll need a business manager."

"Foreman, they call 'em," Bill prompted, grinning. "He bosses all the cowboys, sees to the work."

"Foreman, then. But I don't know where to get one. And I'd want one I could trust, and who had business sense aside from driving cows. I have some money interests elsewhere, too."

"Sure," he agreed.

"Bill, could you consider it? You said you were a cowboy in Texas. I never questioned you further. But I know you have more background than that. You lost your airplane because of me. Do you have other employment?"

Am I offending you in offering you a job?"

Big Bill Baron sighed, heavily.

"Ellen, whenever any American gets offended because somebody offers him a job, he ought to be jailed. Even if he doesn't need one. It happens, however, that I do. I think you've hired a man!"

"Oh, good! But this must be kept on a business basis. How much shall I pay you?"

"You ask me, rather than tell me! You need a manager, all right, Ellen. I think maybe you'd better wait and see if I'm worth anything."

"No."

"Right. That isn't sensible, of course. It really must be a business matter between us. And I'm glad you realize that. I think—would $75 or $100 a week be too much? If you want me to take less, I will."

"I can pay more than that, Bill. I make about $2,000 a week."

"I'll take the hundred. It's enough. You can put me under bond, if I have to handle any money for you."

"No."

"Yes. Absolutely. Business is business, Ellen."

He insisted on it, but he wasn't happy about it and he wasn't sure why. He studied her for a moment. Even in the shadowed moon glow she was lovely, and awfully dainty, he thought. No wonder thousands of screen fans had fallen for her. But it hurt his pride a little to know that he was a man and older than she and not even earning a tenth of her income; America is all cock-eyed, he told himself.

They planned a lot more, talking until 11 o'clock. It was all quite serious, business talk. The impersonal nature of it gradually caused Bill's mood to deepen, and he didn't like it. He had been strangely happy whenever in Ellen Dale's company for the past several days—calling that privilege a rare piece of luck. But two hours of business talk somehow cramped him.

He bade her goodnight and went to his room still in the dark mood. He sat on his bed and meditated for a while, finally muttering "Damn!" and getting no release from it. He tried taking a bath, but that didn't help. He felt somehow that he had told Ellen Dale, a girl, goody, and accepted a position in the employ of Miss Dale, a spinster business woman.

He had enough of brooding presently, and went impulsively to his room telephone.

"Listen Ellen," he spoke directly to the point when the call was through, "I'm sorry to awaken you, but I must tell you I can't take your job. I am resigning, now."

"Oh! Bill! What is it? Is something wrong?"

"Yes. No. I mean—well, business would interfere with what I've got to do. I cannot work for you. I am going to make love to you instead!"

250 At Second Scioto Valley Grange Meeting

'Friends' Topic of Washington Presentation

Approximately 250 attended the second group program meeting of the county granges, Thursday evening, at Scioto Valley grange hall. The evening's program on the theme, "Friends," was furnished by Washington grange under the direction of Mrs. M. M. Bowman, worthy lecturer.

Ralph Stevenson, worthy master of Scioto Valley grange, conducted the business session preceding the program. In opening, the audience sang two numbers, "Friends" and "Hello." A musical trio, Miss Ruby Harris, accordion, Mrs. Russell Palm, piano and Miss Dorothy Glick, piano, played at the beginning and end of the program. F. K. Blair gave an interesting talk on the topic, "Why Be Friends?" Miss Harris sang "A Friend or Two?"

A playlet, "That 'Ere Line Fence" was next on the program, Loring Leist and Ralph McCoy taking the character parts. Charles McCoy played a harmonica solo. The poem, "Friends" was recited by Miss Mildred Wertman. A talk, "Magnanimity" was given by Wendell Boyer. The program continued with a piano duet by Miss Glick and Miss Ethyl May. After a reading "Papa's Little Boy" by Miss Glick, music by the instrumental trio brought the program to a close.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by Mrs. Elliott Crites and her committee.

The next group meeting in the series will be at Logan Elm grange, Tuesday, June 21, with Scioto Valley grange finishing the program.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Boulder bird bath

A BIRD BATH in a garden should be decorative as well as practical. On the other hand, the bird bath in a small garden does not want to be so ornamental as to "stick" out like a sore thumb, as the saying goes. A bird bath should fit into and become an appropriate part of the surroundings. This Garden-Graph shows an informal bird bath, suitable for a rock garden or wild garden, which can be cut or chiseled into the top of a boulder.

As a general rule birds are more at home when the bird bath is near the ground. In such cases, however, be sure the planting about the container does not provide a lurking place for bird enemies.

Many annuals stop blooming if seeds form, and for that reason keep watch from now on to prevent this, especially in the case of sweet peas, nasturtiums, snapdragons and others which form large seed pods.

The jinriksha was invented in 1871 by an American, the Rev. Jonathan Goble, a Baptist missionary residing in Yokohama, Japan.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Boulder bird bath

A BIRD BATH in a garden should be decorative as well as practical. On the other hand, the bird bath in a small garden does not want to be so ornamental as to "stick" out like a sore thumb, as the saying goes. A bird bath should fit into and become an appropriate part of the surroundings.

This Garden-Graph shows an informal bird bath, suitable for a rock garden or wild garden, which can be cut or chiseled into the top of a boulder.

As a general rule birds are more at home when the bird bath is near the ground. In such cases, however, be sure the planting about the container does not provide a lurking place for bird enemies.

Many annuals stop blooming if seeds form, and for that reason keep watch from now on to prevent this, especially in the case of sweet peas, nasturtiums, snapdragons and others which form large seed pods.

The jinriksha was invented in 1871 by an American, the Rev. Jonathan Goble, a Baptist missionary residing in Yokohama, Japan.

ANOTHER CZECH INCIDENT CITED BY NEWSPAPER

assured that if they show a generous desire to solve the minority problem they may count on French and British support, it was said in usually reliable quarters today.

It was said on semi-official authority that the Czechoslovak ministers to Paris and London, now here to discuss the peace plan, reported that France and Great Britain approved the stand the government had taken during the last week including the calling of reserves to the colors.

Ministers Confer

The two ministers, Jan Masaryk to London and Stefan Osusky, to Paris, held long conferences with Foreign Minister Milan Krotka over the peace plan, trying to coordinate slight divergencies between French and British ideas.

Considerable importance was attached to the impending visit here of William Strang, head of the central European department of the British foreign office. He left London yesterday for Berlin to talk first to Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador. He planned then to come here and talk to Basil Cochrane-Newton, British minister, and to return home by way of Paris. It was intimated at London that Strang would be available for talks with German, Czechoslovakian or French government authorities if need arose.

The government was expected today to "call the attention" of the German legation to alleged violations of the frontier by German military planes—similar to the incidents in which Germany alleged that Czechoslovak planes crossed the German frontier.

The government yesterday asserted that 34 German planes in all had flown across the frontier between May 20 and May 25. It was said that two German bombing planes appeared yesterday over Asch, home town of Konrad Henlein, German minority leader, near the frontier.

MOTOR FAILURE IS BLAMED FOR DEATHS OF 10

CLEVELAND, May 27.—(UP)—W. A. Patterson, president of United Airlines, said today that a two-day investigation of the crash-burning of a transport plane, which cost 10 lives, had showed that failure of a cylinder in the ship's right engine occurred approximately eight miles east of the disaster scene.

Patterson's statement supplemented one earlier this week in which he blamed failure of the plane's two motors for the crash. "This cylinder breakage probably was followed by breakage of the exhaust manifold and oil escaping from the damaged cylinder was ignited by contact with the hot broken manifold resulting in a minor fire in the engine nacelle on the right wing," Patterson said. "This resulted in a streak of flame back from the right wing."

'CRAMMING' FOR EXAMS REDUCES GIRLS' WEIGHT

NEW YORK (UP)—Hunter college girls have discovered that the best method for losing weight is to burn the midnight oil. According to the New York City Bureau of Educational Surveys, they paid for cramming in their last examinations with a loss of 13,860 pounds of weight.

The bureau arrived at the figure by multiplying an average of 2 pounds weight loss reported by a representative group of 90 percent of the students who engage in intensive study before and during examination periods.

philosophies and author of a similar measure rejected by the house last year, said that he expected to be "forced to serve as assistant chairman."

Dies told the house yesterday that a threat against the President's life had been made at a recent meeting of an organized group. The American League of Peace and Democracy has been represented publicly as possessing at least three such affidavits.

Dies' remarks fitted the published statement of Roy Zachary, leader of an organization called the Silver Shirts, at a meeting in the Great Northern hotel at Chicago on Sunday, May 8: "If no one else will volunteer to shoot him, I will."

"I have at least 20 affidavits from people of various races and creeds that this statement was made," said Dickstein. "The Silver Shirts are a Fascist organization, tied up with the Bund, of super-patriots—they're 140-percentish."

GARDEN TITLE BOUT DELAYED AGAIN BY RAIN

NEW YORK, May 27.—(UP)—The Barney Ross-Henry Armstrong fight for the world welterweight championship, already delayed 24 hours by rain, was postponed a second time today because of uncertain weather.

Promoter Mike Jacobs announced it would be held Tuesday night. Rain which began shortly after noon yesterday, causing the fight to be postponed for last night and rescheduled for tonight, continued until 10 a. m. today, but the skies were still overcast and Jacobs believed conditions too uncertain to risk holding the match tonight.

Because of the Memorial Day week-end and the migration of thousands of New Yorkers to seashore and country, he felt it would draw better later in the week than either Saturday or Monday nights.

CARROLL BOY'S JURY TO START DELIBERATIONS

NEW YORK, May 27.—(UP)—A jury will be asked to decide today whether Donald Carroll, 16, was guilty of murder when he shot his sweetheart, Charlotte Mathiesen, 18.

Final arguments start at 9:30 a. m. and Prosecutor Joseph V. Loscalzo said he would ask the jury to do what the boy said he had intended but lacked the courage to do for himself—to forfeit his life.

When the trial began, Loscalzo expressed sympathy for Donald and said his duty as a prosecutor was "disagreeable." He never mentioned the death penalty until yesterday evening, after both sides rested.

The defense attorney, Sidney Rosenthal, said he would require two and a half hours. Loscalzo planned to take an hour and Judge Thomas Downs will instruct the jury for another hour. The case should reach the jury about 3:30 p. m.

The jurors are all businessmen, most of them middle aged, with children of their own about the age of Donald and the slain girl.

AMANDA J. HUNTER DIES AT HOME OF DAUGHTER

Mrs. Amanda Jane Hunter, 81, mother of Mrs. Margaret Mills, 331 E. High street, died Thursday at 3:20 p. m. at the Mills home. She had been ill for a week.

Private funeral services will be held Monday at 3 p. m. at the Mills residence, the Rev. A. B. Cox of Newark officiating. Burial, which will be private also, will be in Forest cemetery by the W. H. Albough Co. Friends of the family who wish to call may do so between 2 and 5 p. m. Sunday.

Mrs. Hunter was born in Ross county, Aug. 23, 1856, a daughter of William and Elizabeth Day Reynolds. She was twice married, first to Frank Albright and second to Charles Hunter. Both are deceased.

A daughter, Mrs. Mills, and a brother, Willard Albright, Chillicothe; a sister, Mrs. Bert Morgan, Greenland, O., and three grandsons survive.

Mrs. Hunter was a member of the United Brethren church.

one-half mile front of the company.

As the general strike threatened, representatives of the workers' alliance went to Committee for Industrial Organization officials and offered to close down all W. P. A. projects in Akron. The U. R. W. is a C. I. O. affiliate.

Policeman Wounded

An hour after the fighting ended two police were fired on from a dark parking lot near the plant, and Patrolman Ray Nice, 31, was wounded. The unseen assailant who escaped, fired a shotgun and the blast caught Nice on the right side of the face. It was bird shot and his wound was painful but not serious. Sergeant Robert Miller was walking a few steps ahead and was not hit.

Police took advantage of the lull to confer with leaders of the strikers who announced that they would not withdraw pickets but were willing to negotiate.

The police were aided by the private police of the Goodyear company, who, at the height of the fighting, came out of the plant and fired tear gas at the strikers and their sympathizers. The municipal police swung night sticks and fired tear gas. The strikers threw stones and swung clubs. The fighting was intense and fierce.

Most of the injured suffered contusions and bruises inflicted by sticks and stones, or had been burned or nauseated by the gas. Scores were treated at the scene or at the headquarters of the United Rubber Workers, but approximately 60 were taken to hospitals where some 40 remained an hour after the fighting ceased. It was impossible to ascertain the precise number of injuries.

The trouble at the giant Goodyear plants, the largest rubber processing firm in the world, developed swiftly and unexpectedly after the union had settled its six day strike at the plant of the B. F. Goodrich Co. The Goodyear plants had been operating as usual. Suddenly the union decided to take action and within hours police and union men were fighting in the streets. At the height of the fighting municipal authorities were assembled in city hall, ready to appeal to Governor Davey for national guardsmen. Then Police Chief Rae Williams issued the deadly weapons to his men and the fighting ceased.

Grievances Presented

Last Monday union representatives presented six grievances to Goodyear officials. There were a number of meetings, Wednesday and Wednesday night, reports spread that the company intended closing its plants. Yesterday the company and union officials met and the company presented verbal answers to the grievances, whereas the union men wanted written ones.

The union committee went to headquarters of the Goodyear local where it conferred with the local's executive board. In mid-afternoon it made public its grievances and charged that the company had refused to confer. A call went out over two radio stations for all members of the local to stand by. Union shop committees, numbering 100, were ordered to meet at 6 p. m.

The shop committees were told that the negotiators had been unable to obtain satisfactory answers to the grievances from the company. From the audience came loud shouts, "shut her (the plants) down—shut her down."

While this meeting still was in progress, reports arrived that the vans were taking material out of the plants. Instantly the meeting broke up and the committeemen rushed to the gates. The word spread and within minutes unionists and their sympathizers were assembling in force.

Trucks were leaving by No. 3 gate and there the crowd assembled. Police Lieut. Stephen McGowan arrived with 16 policemen. A city ordinance limits pickets to 10 and McGowan told the unionists to disperse, leaving 10 pickets. The unionists did not disperse, but jostled the gate and McGowan ordered it opened.

Pickets Nearly Struck

The gate was thrown back, revealing trucks, their motors running loaded with tires. An angry cry went up from the unionists. At that moment a truck came down the driveway at high speed, headed for the gate. Six pickets leaped in front of it, to stop it. The driver increased the speed and the pickets escaped by jumping quickly. Fifteen more trucks followed in rapid order. The unionists stoned them, breaking the windows of their cabs, but not stopping them.

Meanwhile, more and more unionists and their sympathizers were arriving and the street in front of the plant was packed from curb to curb. McGowan, whose group had been reinforced, attempted to establish a "corridor" between the crowd and the gate. It was midnight, time for the new shift to report. He shouted that any man wishing to enter the plant to work could do so. He was booed and so were the half dozen or so men who accepted. McGowan then ordered the crowd to disperse. His men waved their night sticks and some men in the crowd could be seen waving sticks. It was impossible to tell which side struck the first blow, but in an instant the air was filled with flying stones and police and strikers were flying one another with sticks.

The crowd was estimated to number 3,000, but of this number not more than 1,000 participated in the fight. The front ranks seemed to be fighting, the rear ranks edging back, watching, shouting, screaming.

A number of shots were fired, by whom or from which side could not be determined. The company's police had been watching from behind the gate which had been closed. Finally, the gate was fung open and they charged out to aid the municipal police.

As news of the rioting spread, the crowd was augmented by hundreds of curious without announced sympathies. Several of the injured came from among these neutrals, including J. Roger Carter, 42, a real estate salesman, who was hit on the head by a gas bomb and severely injured.

Brick Hits Policeman

Of the injured, 10 were admitted to city hospital as seriously hurt. Only one policeman was hurt seriously. He was Sergeant Fred Klingenhagen. A brick hit him on the head.

Other neutrals injured were R. G. Peters, street car operator, and William Paul, 42. Peters' trolley was caught between the unionists and the police. He was gassed before he abandoned the car and ran to safety. Paul was sitting in a cafe across the street from the plant. A tear gas bomb whizzed over the head of the crowd, broke the window, and exploded. He suffered severe burns and lacerations.

One gas bomb exploded in the lobby of the Strand hotel, across the street from the plant. Edward Long, 35, was hit by two fragments, one in the left eye, the other in the left leg. George Swartz, 26, a W. P. A. worker, and Claude Wilhite, 23, a waiter, also were gassed.

the scene, they arrested an 18-year-old Negro whose right hand was scratched and clothing blood-stained.

And two hours later, a second suspect—a 27-year-old Negro—was seized by police.

Mrs. Johnson's attack occurred in the same southside district where 18-year-old Anna Kuchta, Chicago hospital student nurse, was similarly slain in the nurses' home last August. That crime and the "lipstick" slaying of Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle in her hotel room June 28, 1936, remain unsolved.

Investigators believed Mrs. Johnson's attacker entered her first-floor apartment by climbing through a bedroom window from elevated railroad tracks at the rear of the building. He slipped past her children, Kenneth, 5, and Florence, 3, asleep in their room.

Creeping down a hallway, he passed a bedroom in which Miss Margaret Whitten, a nurse and Mrs. Johnson's sister was sleeping, then entered a front bedroom where Mrs. Johnson was asleep.

The attacker ripped Mrs. Johnson's nightgown to shreds and bludgeoned her on the face and head with a brick.

Mrs. Johnson's groans awakened Miss Whitten. She hurried to the hall and saw a negro heading toward the children's bedroom. She screamed and he leaped through the window and disappeared.

Jinx Halts Fight For Ross Title

NEW YORK, May 27—(UP)—The weather jinx dogged Promoter Mike Jacobs again today, threatening a second postponement of the Barney Ross-Henry Armstrong welterweight title fight originally scheduled for last night.

The official forecast of probable showers was reminiscent of the third Ross-Jimmy McLarin welterweight title fight which had to be postponed four times. Other outdoor bouts promoted by Jacobs and interrupted by rain were the Schmeling-Louis fight in June, 1936, and the Louis-Farr heavy-weight title match which was postponed four days last September.

If the 15-round fight does not go on in Madison Square Garden tonight, Eddie Meade, Armstrong's manager, indicated that he would take Henry back to Doc Bier's camp at Pompton Lakes, N. J., and resume training. Ross, who ate a big meal and went to bed after the weigh-in, will do any extra training he feels necessary at Stillman's here.

It is hardly speculative as to when the fight will be held if it is rained out tonight. Jacobs told the United Press any other postponement would be on a day-to-day basis including Saturday and Monday (Memorial Day) nights, but excluding Sunday.

MIAMI FAVORED TO TAKE B. A. A. TRACK HONORS

ATHENS, May 27—(UP)—Miami, long the dominant power in Buckeye conference track and field circles, was the overwhelming favorite to grab another championship in the annual meet here tomorrow. Qualifying trials were scheduled today.

Miami scored one-sided victories during the regular season over each of the other four Buckeye schools which have track teams. Ohio University was beaten 86% to 43%; Ohio Wesleyan turned back, 96 to 35; Cincinnati trounced 109 to 22; and Dayton beaten 111 to 20.

Miami's great strength lies in its team balance. While the Redskins are not counted upon to take more first places than either Ohio U. or Wesleyan, they are expected to pile up a wide margin of superiority by grabbing numerous points for second and third places.

The Miami team will be led by Larry Bell, one of the finest javelin throwers in the mid-west; Jerry Williams, shot putter; Bob Mills, sterling sprinter; Larry Brewer, a hurdler; Wendell Cook, a 440 yard man; and Art Hall, a distance runner.

Only four records are considered in danger of being broken. They are in the javelin throw; the 440; the one mile and the mile relay.

The regular Spring gathering of Buckeye conference athletic directors and faculty representatives will be held in connection with the track meet.

YOUNG PITCHER HALTS INDIANS IN 5-3 CONTEST

Kansas City Moves Back To Top Spot; Browne, Kelleher Obtained

COLUMBUS, May 27—(UP)—Belated moves to strengthen the Columbus Red Birds, winners of the American Association pennant in 1937, today had moved the club out of the "push over" class.

For the first month of the season the parent St. Louis Cardinals attempted a "noble experiment" with the Red Birds by sending them a flock of untried rookies. The experiment was a "flop" and Columbus fell to last place and remained there until seasoned players began to find their way to the club's roster.

Columbus moved out of the cellar for the first time Wednesday and last night they climbed into sixth place with a 5 to 3 triumph over Indianapolis.

George Hader, youthful fast ball hurler, scattered eight Indianapolis hits to gain his second victory in five days over the charges of Manager Ray Schalk.

Kaseys Back in First

Kansas City climbed back into first place in the standing when it took a 3 to 1 verdict from Minneapolis. Joe Vance, late of the New York Yankees, pitched masterful ball for eight innings, but gave way to a relief hurler when the Millers threatened in the ninth.

St. Paul held on to its fourth place position by trouncing Milwaukee 9 to 3.

Fred Johnson, veteran right-hander, limited the lowly Louisville Colonels to eight scattered hits as Toledo beat them 8 to 0. The Mudhens raked two Louisville hurlers for 13 safeties, four of which were extra base hits.

Most recent additions to the Red Bird lineup are Earl Browne, efficient outfielder and first sacker, and Hal Kelleher, pitcher. Both come from the Philadelphia Nationals. The Columbus team gave up Ot Stein, infielder.

Drivers Insist 500-Mile Car Race Not Dangerous

INDIANAPOLIS, May 27—(UP)—Although 34 lives have been claimed on the giant Indianapolis Motor Speedway, the daredevils competing in the 500-Mile Memorial Day race say it's safer than driving through Sunday traffic.

Since the brick oval was built in 1909, 13 have died in practice, 10 were killed in the race, six spectators have perished and five others met death before the 500-Mile was inaugurated in 1911.

But here's how Kelly Pettilo, the smiling Italian who won the classic in 1935 and will be among the favorites this year, regards it: "Danger? Well, I suppose there is some. There's danger whenever you climb into any kind of a car these days. But I'd say there is much more chance of getting killed on any highway than on this track."

Can Depend on Rivals
"I do a lot of driving on the highways, and I'd much prefer to take my chances on the Speedway. You know your car is in condition, the other drivers are experts, and you're acquainted with every dip and curve in the track."

"You can never tell about these highway drivers—one of them is likely to duck out of a side road or come swerving at you any time, and what can you do? Hang on and pray, is about all."

These sentiments were supported by Louis Meyer, three-time winner of the race, and other drivers who'll be whirling around the oval at an average speed of 110 to 118 miles an hour May 30.

Speedway officials have been striving for more safety in recent years, a reversal of the former policy. In 1936, after four racers had been killed in the preceding year, the track was repaired, a new retaining wall erected on the dangerous south turn and the inside guard rail moved back to give space for a safety apron.

Safety Wall Built
Wall-jumping, extremely dangerous in previous years, was outmoded by these improvements. The curved wall was set at a different angle, giving the drivers a greater opportunity to bounce safely back on the track.

No national auto racing champion ever has been killed on the Speedway, nor has a 500-Mile winner ever returned to lose his life. Only two money winners died later on the track.

The first fatal accident occurred on Aug. 14, 1909, and the victim was Jack DeRosier, national motorcycle champion. His motorcycle hit a rough spot, turned a loop and crashed.

Five days later, the first automobile deaths occurred during a series of sprint races. Before the meet was over, three drivers and mechanics and two spectators were killed.

Fatality in First Race
One death occurred during the first 500-Mile race in 1911 when the rear tires on Arthur Greiner's car blew out and his mechanic, S. P. Dickson, was killed.

Three persons perished in 1919, including Louis LeCocq, famous French driver, whose car overturned and burst into flames. Three more were killed in 1931, one of them an 11-year-old boy who was struck by a wheel thrown from Billy Arnold's car.

Fatalities reached a new high in 1933 when five were killed, two in practice and three during the race. Four perished while trying to qualify for the 1935 race.

There were no serious accidents in the race last year, although the qualifying trials claimed three lives.

25,000 TO SEE REDLEGS, CARDS MEET AT NIGHT

First Big League Nocturnal Contest Scheduled For Friday

CINCINNATI, May 27—(UP)—The Cincinnati Reds, the only club in the major league sponsoring night baseball, will begin their fourth season of night play here tonight when the St. Louis Cardinals are met.

A crowd of approximately 25,000 persons was expected for the contest.

Manager Bill McKechnie declined to name his starting pitcher. He said he would make a last minute choice from a group comprised of Lee Grissom, Johnny Vander Meer, Jim Weaver or Al Hollingsworth. Lon Warneke was scheduled to be in the box for the Cards.

Tonight's contest is the first of seven the Reds will play under the lights. They meet the Cards twice with the exception of the New York Giants, once. Manager Bill Terry has refused to permit his team to take part in a night game.

The final game of the Reds' first long road trip of the season was rained out yesterday at Boston after two men were out in the Cincinnati half of the second inning. The Reds were leading 1 to 0 at the time rain halted the contest.

Grissom was in the box for Cincinnati, making his first start since April 27. He appeared to be in excellent form.

The Reds visited five cities during their road trip and compiled a record of seven victories and five defeats. Each of the losses was by a margin of one run.

DUDLEY, LAFFOON HOLD TINY EDGE IN GOLF MATCH

TOLEDO, May 27—(UP)—Ed Dudley and Ky Laffoon today sought to protect a narrow one point lead as they prepared to play the second and third rounds of the fourth annual Inverness Invitational Golf tournament.

Dudley and Laffoon compiled a best ball score of 63 here yesterday to win 6 up over Lawson Little and Jimm DeMaret. In a second round match the leaders met Jimmy Thomson and Tommy Armour, who finished even in their match yesterday. The leader's third round opponent will be Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, who have a minus five standing.

The point-total for other teams in the round-robin tournament follow: Willie Goggin-Frank Walsh, plus five; Horton Smith-Harry Cooper, plus three; Vic Cheezli-Sam Shead, even and Dick Metz-Gene Sarazen, minus three.

who was struck by a wheel thrown from Billy Arnold's car.

Fatalities reached a new high in 1933 when five were killed, two in practice and three during the race. Four perished while trying to qualify for the 1935 race.

There were no serious accidents in the race last year, although the qualifying trials claimed three lives.

ITALIAN RACING DRIVER MAY JOIN SPEEDWAY TEST

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 27—(UP)—Tazio Nuvolari, Italy's greatest racing driver, arrived at the Indianapolis motor speedway today and began inspecting several cars, one of which he may drive in the 500-mile Memorial Day race next Monday.

The "Madman of Modena" said that if one of the machines comes up to his standards he will attempt to qualify.

If he obtains a car, Nuvolari will face a big task. He never has driven over the two and a half mile course while all other drivers know every bump and curve. He will have only two days in which to qualify—from 1 p. m. to 7 p. m. today and from 12 noon to 4 p. m. tomorrow.

HIGH ATHLETES OF STATE VIE IN MANY TESTS

COLUMBUS, May 27—(UP)—Eight prized championships in four sports were put up for decision here today as 1,100 athletes from 250 schools in the state opened competition in the Ohio High School Athletic Association's annual carnival.

Only three title-holders of a year ago were back for a defense of their crowns. The 1937 winners who sought to repeat were Sandusky and Columbus Upper Arlington in Class "A" and Class "B" track; and Canton McKinley in Class "A" baseball. The "B" baseball winner and the tennis and golf rulers of last season did not return.

Preliminaries in six events in each class were to be run off in track today. Two rounds were to be played in the baseball tournament; the first 18 holes were scheduled in the golf meet, and the field in the tennis competition will be brought down to the semi-final round. Finals in all sports will be held tomorrow.

Toledo Scott which missed a "grand slam" in the scholastic relay competition this Spring by a scant one-half point, the margin by which it was beaten at Mansfield, was the top-heavy choice to win the Class "A" track toga. Scott showed fine all-around strength as it triumphed in the Ohio Wesleyan, Salem and Miami University Relays.

Scott's greatest competition was expected from Cleveland West Tech, Cincinnati Withrow and Sandusky, the defending champion.

In Class "B", Columbus Upper Arlington ruled the favorite, but was not as pronounced a choice as Scott. Other highly regarded schools in the lower division were: Oak Harbor, Poland, Dennison, Oberlin, Belpre and O. S. & S. O. Home of Xenia.

LAWRIN AND BULL LEA OUT OF ILLINOIS DERBY

AURORA, Ill., May 27—(UP)—A field of 12 three-year-olds, none of which has shown to good advantage this year, appeared likely as starters tomorrow for the $12,000 added Illinois derby, first major racing stake race of the Chicago racing season. Lawrin, the Kentucky derby winner, and Warren Wright's temperamental Bull Lea were withdrawn yesterday.

INDIANS WEAKEN TO LET RED SOX BREAK 3-3 TIE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 27—(UP)—The Cleveland Indians came here today for a three game series with the cellar-dwelling St. Louis Browns with high hopes of strengthening their hold on the American league lead.

Earl Whitehill, veteran south-paw, was to be in the box for the Indians, with Jack Walkup opposing him.

After three contests here Cleveland returns home for a Decoration day double-header with the Chicago White Sox and then begins a second eastern trip.

The Indians had a full game shaved off their lead yesterday when they were beaten 8 to 4 by the second place Boston Red Sox.

Denny Galehouse started in the box for the Tribe and pitched fine ball for the four innings. At the end of that time he had a 3 to 0 lead. However, in the fifth inning he blew up and Johnny Humphries was sent to the hill.

Humphries permitted the Red Sox to tie the score with two runs in the seventh and in the Indians half of the round he was removed for a pinch hitter.

Willis Hudlin then took the mound and gave a sorry exhibition of relief hurling. Hudlin was hammered for two runs in the eighth and three in the ninth. He was charged with the defeat.

Jack Wilson, the fast ball ace of the Red Sox staff, limited Cleveland to five hits. Except for the fourth inning, when the Tribe scored three times Wilson pitched masterful ball. The Indians fourth run came in the ninth on a home run by Ken Keltner.

Wilson struck out six men.

ATLANTA GOLF STAR REMAINS IN TROON TEST

TROON, Scotland, May 27—(UP)—Charley Yates of Atlanta reached the semi final round of the British amateur golf championship today by winning 3 and 2 over Cyril James Hastings Tolley, giant Englishman who is a twice former winner of the title.

Yates was out in 33 against par 36 and was two strokes under form figures for the 16 holes played.

Since the brick oval was built in 1909, 13 have died in practice, 10 were killed in the race, six spectators have perished and five others met death before the 500-Mile was inaugurated in 1911.

But here's how Kelly Pettito, the smiling Italian who won the classic in 1935 and will be among the favorites this year, regards it: "Danger? Well, I suppose there is some. There's danger whenever you climb into any kind of a car these days. But I'd say there is much more chance of getting killed on any highway than on this track."

Can Depend on Rivals
"I do a lot of driving on the highways, and I'd much prefer to take my chances on the Speedway. You know your car is in condition, the other drivers are experts, and you're acquainted with every dip and curve in the track."

"You can never tell about these highway drivers—one of them is likely to duck out of a side road or come swerving at you any time, and what can you do? Hang on and pray, is about all."

These sentiments were supported by Louis Meyer, three-time winner of the race, and other drivers who'll be whirling around the oval at an average speed of 110 to 118 miles an hour May 30.

Speedway officials have been striving for more safety in recent years, a reversal of the former policy. In 1936, after four racers had been killed in the preceding year, the track was repaired, a new retaining wall erected on the dangerous south turn and the inside guard rail moved back to give space for a safety apron.

Safety Wall Built
Wall-jumping, extremely dangerous in previous years, was out-

25,000 TO SEE REDLEGS, CARDS MEET AT NIGHT

First Big League Nocturnal Contest Scheduled For Friday

CINCINNATI, May 27—(UP)—The Cincinnati Reds, the only club in the major league sponsoring night baseball, will begin their fourth season of night play here tonight when the St. Louis Cardinals are met.

A crowd of approximately 25,000 persons was expected for the contest.

Manager Bill McKechnie declined to name his starting pitcher. He said he would make a last minute choice from a group comprised of Lee Grissom, Johnny Vander Meer, Jim Weaver or Al Hollingsworth. Lon Warneke was scheduled to be in the box for the Cards.

Tonight's contest is the first of seven the Reds will play under the lights. They meet the Cards twice with the exception of the New York Giants, once. Manager Bill Terry has refused to permit his team to take part in a night game.

The final game of the Reds' first long road trip of the season was rained out yesterday at Boston after two men were out in the Cincinnati half of the second inning. The Reds were leading 1 to 0 at the time rain halted the contest.

Grissom was in the box for Cincinnati, making his first start since April 27. He appeared to be in excellent form.

The Reds visited five cities during their road trip and compiled a record of seven victories and five defeats. Each of the losses was by a margin of one run.

DUDLEY, LAFFOON HOLD TINY EDGE IN GOLF MATCH

TOLEDO, May 27—(UP)—Ed Dudley and Ky Laffoon today sought to protect a narrow one point lead as they prepared to play the second and third rounds of the fourth annual Inverness Invitational Golf tournament.

Dudley and Laffoon compiled a best ball score of 63 here yesterday to win 6 up over Lawson Little and Jimm DeMaret. In a second round match the leaders met Jimmy Thomson and Tommy Armour, who finished even in their match yesterday. The leader's third round opponent will be Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta, who have a minus five standing.

The point-total for other teams in the round-robin tournament follows: Willie Goggin-Frank Walsh, plus five; Horton Smith-Harry Cooper, plus three; Vic Chezz-Sam Sneed, even and Dick Metz-Gene Sarazen, minus three.

who was struck by a wheel thrown from Billy Arnold's car.

Fatalities reached a new high in 1933 when five were killed, two in practice and three during the race. Four perished while trying to qualify for the 1935 race.

There were no serious accidents in the race last year, although the qualifying trials claimed three lives.

Three persons perished in 1919, including Louis LeCocq, famous French driver, whose car overturned and burst into flames. Three more were killed in 1931, one of them an 11-year-old boy.

ITALIAN RACING

DRIVER MAY JOIN SPEEDWAY TEST

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 27

—(UP)—Tazio Nuvolari, Italy's greatest racing driver, arrived at the Indianapolis motor speedway today and began inspecting several cars, one of which he may drive in the 500-mile Memorial Day race next Monday.

The "Madman of Modena" said that if one of the machines comes up to his standards he will attempt to qualify.

If he obtains a car, Nuvolari will face a big task. He never has driven over the two and a half mile course while all other drivers know every bump and curve. He will have only two days in which to qualify—from 1 p. m. to 7 p. m. today and from 12 noon to 4 p. m. tomorrow.

HIGH ATHLETES OF STATE VIE IN MANY TESTS

COLUMBUS, May 27—(UP)—Eight prized championships in four sports were put up for decision here today as 1,100 athletes from 250 schools in the state opened competition in the Ohio High School Athletic Association's annual carnival.

Only three title-holders of a year ago were back for a defense of their crowns. The 1937 winners who sought to repeat were Sandusky and Columbus Upper Arlington in Class "A" and Class "B" track; and Canton McKinley in Class "A" baseball. The "B" baseball winner and the tennis and golf rulers of last season did not return.

Preliminaries in six events in each class were to be run off in track today. Two rounds were to be played in the baseball tournament; the first 18 holes were scheduled in the golf meet, and the field in the tennis competition will be brought down to the semi-final round. Finals in all sports will be held tomorrow.

Toledo Scott which missed a "grand slam" in the scholastic relay competition this Spring by a scant one-half point, the margin by which it was beaten at Mansfield, was the top-heavy choice to win the Class "A" track today.

Scott showed fine all-around strength as it triumphed in the Ohio Wesleyan, Salem and Miami University Relays.

Scott's greatest competition was expected from Cleveland West Tech, Cincinnati Withrow and Sandusky, the defending champion.

In Class "B", Columbus Upper Arlington ruled the favorite, but was not as pronounced a choice as Scott. Other highly regarded schools in the lower division were: Oak Harbor, Poland, Dennison, Oberlin, Belpre and O. S. & S. O. Home of Xenia.

LAWRIN AND BULL LEA OUT OF ILLINOIS DERBY

AURORA, Ill., May 27—(UP)—A field of 12 three-year-olds, none of which has shown to good advantage this year, appeared likely as starters tomorrow for the $12,000 added Illinois derby, first major racing stake race of the Chicago racing season.

Lawrin, the Kentucky derby winner, and Warren Wright's temperamental Bull Lea were withdrawn yesterday.

ATLANTA GOLF STAR REMAINS IN TROON TEST

TRON, Scotland, May 27—(UP)—Charley Yates of Atlanta reached the semi final round of the British amateur golf championship today by winning 3 and 2 over Cyril James Hastings Tolley, giant Englishman who is a twice former winner of the title.

Yates was out in 33 against par 36 and was two strokes under form figures for the 16 holes played.

O. S. U. EXPERT SEES NEED FOR CLOVER GROWING

More Red Seed Would Add To Farmers' Profits, R. D. Lewis Says

COLUMBUS, May 27: Producing seed from medium red clover in Ohio is one farm enterprise which is not overcrowded and which would pay a good profit if properly managed, according to R. D. Lewis, extension agronomist, Ohio State university.

Red clover seed has been high in price for several years and present conditions indicate there will not be any too much seed in the near future. Farmers who produce good seed have the added protection that locally grown seed is superior to seed grown in other parts of the state or in distant places.

Red clover is a mixture of all the strains of this clover grown in any section because the seed is produced by the cross fertilization of the flowers. Any local strain that has successfully produced crops over a period of years is more apt to survive local weather conditions than a strain brought in which has not been subjected to these particular conditions.

Mr. Lewis says the first step in producing good yields of red clover seed is to take the first cutting for hay in the period between half bloom and full bloom. Delayed first cuttings will reduce yields of seed in the second crop at least 50 percent and sometimes cause complete failures to set seed. In Ohio, the first crop should be cut in early June.

Placing colonies of honey bees in or near the clover field will materially increase the chances of getting a good seed crop. There are 25 or 30 species of insects which may pollinate red clover blossoms but 75 or 80 percent of the pollination is performed by bees.

Mr. Lewis states that farmers who want to make a rough test of the seed yield in a clover field can do so by checking a square of yard. Fields which have 100 flowering heads per square yard with an average of 25 seeds in each head will yield one bushel of seed per acre. More blossoms or better filled heads will increase the yield proportionately.

The University agronomist warns growers against saving seed from fields which were planted with European red clovers. Although such fields may have survived due to favorable conditions last winter, the seed is not satisfactory for use in Ohio under normal conditions.

Domestic red clover has fuzzy stems and the plant hairs stand out nearly at right angles to the stems. European clover has stems which are nearly smooth and the hairs tend to lie flat against the stems. Seed saved from European clover will result in crop failures sooner or later.

COVERED WAGON CARRIES CHILDREN TO CLASSES

NIBLEY, Utah (UP)—A horse-drawn covered wagon is still doing active duty here, making a round trip every day to transport children in remote sections to and from school.

The covered wagon is favored over a modern school bus because of the severe weather which leaves canyon roads impassable to automobiles.

During the winter, runners are substituted for the wheels.

The school at Four Oaks, N. C., claims to be the largest consolidated rural school in the world. More than 1,800 students study in its two buildings.

O. S. U. EXPERT SEES NEED FOR CLOVER GROWING

More Red Seed Would Add To Farmers' Profits, R. D. Lewis Says

COLUMBUS, May 27: Producing seed from medium red clover in Ohio is one farm enterprise which is not overcrowded and which would pay a good profit if properly managed, according to R. D. Lewis, extension agronomist, Ohio State university.

Red clover seed has been high in price for several years and present conditions indicate there will not be any too much seed in the near future. Farmers who produce good seed have the added protection that locally grown seed is superior to seed grown in other parts of the state or in distant places.

Red clover is a mixture of all the strains of this clover grown in any section because the seed is produced by the cross fertilization of the flowers. Any local strain that has successfully produced crops over a period of years is more apt to survive local weather conditions than a strain brought in which has not been subjected to these particular conditions.

Mr. Lewis says the first step in producing good yields of red clover seed is to take the first cutting for hay in the period between half bloom and full bloom. Delayed first cuttings will reduce yields of seed in the second crop at least 50 percent and sometimes cause complete failures to set seed. In Ohio, the first crop should be cut in early June.

Placing colonies of honey bees in or near the clover field will materially increase the chances of getting a good seed crop. There are 25 or 30 species of insects which may pollinate red clover blossoms but 75 or 80 percent of the pollination is performed by bees.

Mr. Lewis states that farmers who want to make a rough test of the seed yield in a clover field can do so by checking a square of yard. Fields which have 100 flowering heads per square yard with an average of 25 seeds in each head will yield one bushel of seed per acre. More blossoms or better filled heads will increase the yield proportionately.

The University agronomist warns growers against saving seed from fields which were planted with European red clovers. Although such fields may have survived due to favorable conditions last winter, the seed is not satisfactory for use in Ohio under normal conditions.

Domestic red clover has fuzzy stems and the plant hairs stand out nearly at right angles to the stems. European clover has stems which are nearly smooth and the hairs tend to lie flat against the stems. Seed saved from European clover will result in crop failures sooner or later.

COVERED WAGON CARRIES CHILDREN TO CLASSES

NIBLEY, Utah (UP)—A horse-drawn covered wagon is still doing active duty here, making a round trip every day to transport children in remote sections to and from school.

The covered wagon is favored over a modern school bus because of the severe weather which leaves canyon roads impassable to automobiles.

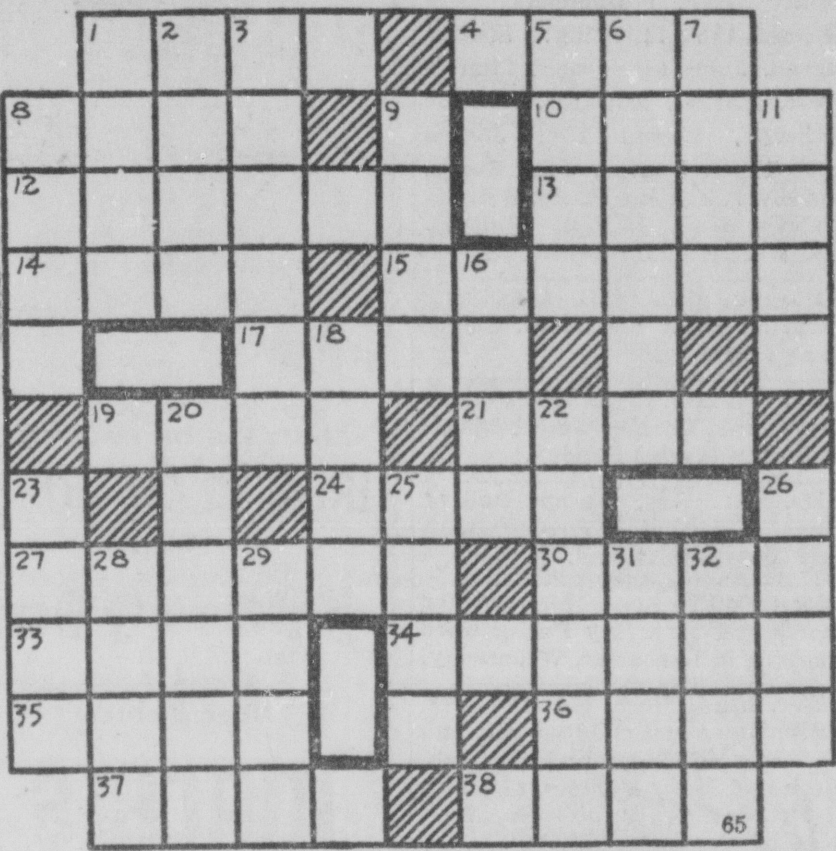

During the winter, runners are substituted for the wheels.

The school at Four Oaks, N. C., claims to be the largest consolidated rural school in the world. More than 1,800 students study in its two buildings.

 WHEN AN experienced player has opened the auction with a suit bid and then doubled on his next turn, without having heard anything from his partner except a pass, he is making an informative double asking for a takeout. That is, unless the doubled bid is two or more trump or at least three of a suit. In such circumstances, the double of a suit bid of three may usually be treated as either for information or for penalties, putting it up to the partner to use his judgment.

West cashed the diamond A and then switched to the heart 9, East winning the trick with the A. He returned a diamond, which South ruffed. Two rounds of clubs followed and on the third East ruffed and South overruffed. When a spade was led, West jumped in with the A and led his last heart, which South won with the K. West ruffed the next heart lead and cashed his two remaining spades but was able to take no more tricks, so that South made his two spade contract, doubled.

Three diamonds could have been made by East-West and should have been bid by East unless he felt he could defeat the contract of the opponents.

ANNOUNCING... Vitamin D Milk

A Pure Pasteurized Milk with Greater Nutritional Value

WE are now ready to deliver this type of milk—Vitamin D Milk. It looks and tastes just like our regular pasteurized milk but each quart of it contains 400 U. S. P. units of Vitamin D. The process for its preparation, the number of units it contains and the claims made for it are acceptable to the Committee on Foods of the American Medical Association.

The Vitamin D we use in producing this milk is extracted from cod-liver oil by a process which was developed in the laboratories of Columbia University.

It is the Vitamin D that has been given to children for 100 years.

Your physician knows the facts about our Vitamin D Milk; he can tell you about its nutritional value for infants, older children and adults.

Your dentist, too, is interested in Vitamin D Milk. Ask him about its importance in the well balanced diet which, with oral hygiene, is essential for protecting your own and your children's teeth from decay.

ANNOUNCING... Vitamin D Milk

A Pure Pasteurized Milk with Greater Nutritional Value

WE are now ready to deliver this type of milk—Vitamin D Milk. It looks and tastes just like our regular pasteurized milk but each quart of it contains 400 U. S. P. units of Vitamin D. The process for its preparation, the number of units it contains and the claims made for it are acceptable to the Committee on Foods of the American Medical Association.

The Vitamin D we use in producing this milk is extracted from cod-liver oil by a process which was developed in the laboratories of Columbia University.

It is the Vitamin D that has been given to children for 100 years.

Your physician knows the facts about our Vitamin D Milk; he can tell you about its nutritional value for infants, older children and adults.

Your dentist, too, is interested in Vitamin D Milk. Ask him about its importance in the well balanced diet which, with oral hygiene, is essential for protecting your own and your children's teeth from decay.

A CONVENIENT—PLEASANT—ECONOMICAL SOURCE OF VITAMIN D

This Seal shows that our Vitamin D Milk and all advertising claims for it have been accepted by the Committee on Foods of the American Medical Association.

Vitamin D Milk Usually Sells From 1c to 3c a Quart Higher But Our Price, Delivered to your home, 10 cents a quart.

ALL OF OUR MILK IS 4% TEST
